Hudson Valley Oil Paintings by Pamela Wagner In City Hall for Month of March

During March, visitors to City Hall at 83 Broadway can enjoy familiar and beautiful Hudson Valley scenes depicted in original oil paintings by Pamela Wagner.

Pam grew up in Cold Spring, NY and now resides in the Town of Newburgh. She started painting in her youth, but put it aside while raising her family. When her children left for college in 2001, she returned to her art. Through palette and brush she captures the tranquil, natural beauty of the Hudson Valley landscape.

Inspired by the Impressionists and the Hudson River School, she uses her self-taught ability to create a style all her own.

Her work has been exhibited at local venues including Colonial Terraces "A Day in the Terraces," River Art Walk, and Newburgh Free Library.
