“Art in City Hall” Features Paintings by Cornwall Artist Joyce L. Davis

Works by Joyce L. Davis are currently on display in Newburgh City Hall at 83 Broadway. A Cornwall native, Ms. Davis is a retired Elementary School Teacher. She taught as a substitute for 13 years in the Newburgh Enlarged City School District, and also taught art and pre-kindergarten at Leptondale Christian Academy, where she introduced art to the curriculum.

Her art training has been informal under the instruction of John and Paul Gould at the Bethlehem Art Gallery. She currently attends art classes at the Senior Citizen Center under the instruction of Carol Galietta.

She said, “Painting is my passion and my hobby. I also attend art shows throughout the Hudson Valley.”

Works by Joyce Davis have been shown at Mount St. Mary College, Newburgh Free Library, Cornwall Landing, and the Orange County Government Building in Goshen. For more information, call 534-2315.
