	10-2-2.1	55	Broad	55 Broad Street	1852	INDIVIDUAL BLDG. SURVEY FORM: Original owner David Moore. 1852 Carpenter Gothic. 1972 owner Parkhill Harris. Structural condition sound. 1 porch. Rectangular layout - center hall with addition. Brick bearing wall. Roof slate gable. 2 compound chimneys, 3 dormers. Cornice wood barge boards, vine and leaf design. Richly decorated house, deep hooded and flat topped trefoil dormer windows, trefoil arched openings on rear veranda. Spool balustrades of banisters on stairs. Stained glass windows. Hooded gable on addition on south and added soon after original construction. Now an apartment house with several apartments and single rooms. Design No. 18 by Vaux and Downing, as documented in Villas and Cottages , 1857. 3 photos and page out of Villas . CONTINUED IN CELL BELOW.
	10-2-2.1	55	Broad	55 Broad Street	1852	CONTINUED: A. Downs to B. Benepe, 7 Jan.1972. This building should be known as the Fowler-Moore House. Planned by Andrew J. Downing for Jacob V. B. Fowler in 1851 or early 1852. It was partly built at the time of Downing's death. The unfinished house was sold to David Moor in June 1853, and the work was put entirely into the hands of Calvert Vaux, who added dormer windows, projecting window hoods, a dormer window on the south with a covered balcony above, and landscaped the grounds (including a fountain) which were doubled in size by Moore. The brick was painted a light buff with a tinge of green, and the wood trim was in various shades of brown. (The above is based on deed research, and Vaux's Villas .) The original house is the part nearest Broad Street, the part on the west is a later addition which can perhaps be dated by maps. An interesting garage (of stone as I recall) to the southeast is not original. If there was a carriage house or barn it was on the southeast corner of Montgomery and Broad on a plot which Moore owned at this time.

	11-4-8	391	Liberty	391-437 Liberty Street	1865	(Mount St. Mary's Academy)- A finely detailed Gothic-Revival-style estate, the complex is unique in the city for its Queen Anne-style carriage house and Gothic-style support structures. The residence's picturesque nature is derived from its irregular plan and massing. One-and-one-half- to three-stories tall and eight bays wide, the residence presents a variety of roof styles: gabled, hipped, flat, pyramidal, and tent. The central tower has a bracketed cornice and trefoil-ornamented frieze. There is a projecting bay with Gothic-style decoration. The dormers and cross-gables have bargeboards, and the arcaded porches are embellished with Gothic motifs and a decorative balustrade. There is an octagonal tower on the north elevation and a square entrance bay on the east (main) facade. An oriel window is to the right of the main entrance bay. The chimneys have circular chimney pots. The large, ornate carriage house is characterized by projecting window bay, flared roofs, and a central cupola with a pyramidal roof.

R				84 Liberty Street	1750	INDIVIDUAL BLDG. SURVEY FORM: Washington's Headquarters. Original owner Col. Jonathan Hasbrouck. 1750 & earlier. 1972 owner, NYS Historic Trust. Structural condition sound. 1 story, 3 front bays, rear porch. Rectangular layout, center hall-living room. Stone bearing walls. 1 chimney, 0 dormers. One of Newburgh's earliest houses. General Washington quartered here for 18 months following Treaty of Yorktown, from March 1782 until September 1783. Simple interior plan with massive fireplace against the wall without sides or throat, only a simple opening at the ceiling into the chimney. At the time this house was built, Liberty Street was Kings Highway. Jonathan Hasbrouck built the present structure, incorporating an earlier stone house in the southeast corner, the walls and roof of which may still be seen. Information from National Register & NYS Historic Trust. 1 sketch.

R	19-1-19	93<107	Montgomery	99 Montgomery Street	1838	CONTINUED This house was bought by William C. Hasbrouck from his father-in-law who built the mansion next door at 160 Grand Street. Thornton Niven, whose house stands at 201 Montgomery Street, may have had something to do with its design as it is the only house besides his own which has a ground floor kitchen at the side rather than in the cellar, as was customary (A. C. Downs, Jr.). More information in HABS active files from 1970. Also mentioned in Downs' book on Niven, and Minard Lafever's book on Vitruvian Tuscan Order The Young Builder's Instructor . Note at bottom of sheet says "to be demolished". 4 photographs. Helen Ver Nooy Gear's text: Two great living or drawing rooms on the main floor open into each other, library at south of front door, lobby from which the living room opens. House may have been the design of J. Notman (so like it is to that in the A. J. Downing book of 1842) called Tuscan Villa. In interior's north wing is an elliptical hall with a gorgeously designed elliptical skylight and stairway which winds around it. CONTINUED IN CELL BELOW.
R	19-1-19	93<107	Montgomery	99 Montgomery Street	1838	CONTINUED: A long slender hall cuts through the center of the main house upstairs. From symmetrically balanced living room there past bedroom, doors on either side and a bath, to a great bedroom at the back - fireplace directly back of the entrance to hall at front. There were several baths but since the house is boarded and shuttered it is hard to remember where the various utilitarian rooms were. The cellar not only had a winerom with its cribs but in the great kitchen at the north an early decorated bathtub-shaped iron sink still stands. Some fireplaces simple, quite lovely, pink or white marble are still there. Door frames and windows are intact. Library niches also remain, though shelves are gone.

				44-50 Smith Street	1882-1883	INDIVIDUAL BLDG. SURVEY FORM: Original owner YMCA, Turner Building. 1882-1883 Romanesque (date in 1971 letter from Arthur Channing Downs, Jr.) 1972 owner Newburgh Urban Renewal Agency. Structural condition deteriorating. 3 stories, basement. Rectangular layout. Brick bearing walls. Roof slate shingle. 2 chimneys. Cornice decorative brick coping. Characterized by a decorative but restrained brick work, grouped openings and a rather modern geometry suggestive of Richardson's or F. L. Wright's early work, these two buildings were designed by McKim, Meade & White. E.S. Turner had his office at 44 Smith for 15 years before becoming a member of Turner, Shipp & Osborn Insurance & Real Estate. He was also President of the YMCA from 1878-1883 and with J. T. Bowne, raised $27,000 to build the two buildings. The contractors were: William H. Hilton, carpenter; John Little, mason. CONTINUED IN CELL BELOW.
				44-50 Smith Street	1882-1883	CONTINUED: "The general style of the building is colonial. The exterior walls are of selected North River brick laid in red mortar, and trimmed with quoins of molded Croton brick & Bluestone." From Nutt's Newburgh 1891 pp.70, 151-152. Demolished in 1971 by NURA, Theodore Proper, Chairman. 1890 photo & 1969 photo.

				11 South Water Street	18th Century	INDIVIDUAL BLDG. SURVEY FORM: Original owner, Denton House. 18th Century, Colonial. 1972 owner, Newburgh Urban Renewal Agency NURA. Structural condition dilapidated. 2 stories, 2 front bays, basement. Rectangular layout. Clapboard over frame. Roof flat asphalt. 1 chimney. Cornice simple wood. Described as the oldest house in Newburgh in the 1928 Annual Report of the Historical Society, this house has been altered by the addition of a second floor in place of the original gabled attic and the replacement of the side (originally front) entrance with the present front store entrance. Much original structure including oak frame, pegged & numbered, exposed by a fire. According to Historian Gearn, the Dentons ran the Newburgh-Fishkill ferry which Alexander Colden left at the time of the revolution. At that time, the lower stone foundation walls met the edge of the Hudson River. Demolished by NURA in 1972, Theodore Proper, Chairman. 1 photo.
